

Senator Chuck Hufstetler
Senate District 52

Senator Chuck Hufstetler, a Republican, was elected to the State Senate for Georgia's 52nd District in 2012. Senator Hufstetler represents Floyd County along with portions of Bartow, Chattooga and Gordon counties.

Senator Hufstetler serves as the Chair of the Retirement Committee, Vice-Chair of the Health and Human Services Committee and as a Subcommittee Chair of the Appropriations Committee. He will continue to serve as a member on the Education and Youth Committee.

Senator Hufstetler was elected to the Floyd County Board of Commissioners in 1998. As Commissioner, he led the way to cut taxes six times, trimmed the waste of the government by analyzing every expenditure of each department and eliminated the debt for the first time in modern history of the county. The county received their first ever "AA" bond rating during his tenure when he served as Finance Chair. He was also the negotiator with the Atlanta Braves to bring the minor league team to Rome in 2002. He was one of two in charge of construction of the Rome Braves Stadium. The stadium was built on time, under budget and completely paid for in one year. As a strong fiscal conservative, he was re-elected to the board in 2002 and elected as Chairman in 2003 and 2004.

Professionally, Senator Hufstetler worked 14 years as a corporate manager for Welch Foods and Earthgrain. In 1994, he returned to Rome to buy a long-time Floyd County establishment, Paul's Oyster Bar in the Coosa area.

In 2006, Senator Hufstetler pursued a life-long passion by enrolling in Emory School of Medicine to become an anesthesiologist. After graduating, he began providing anesthesia to patients at Redmond Regional Hospital where he currently still works. He also works as an Adjunct Professor at Emory University School of Medicine.

He earned a double major in Biology and Psychology from the University of Georgia, a degree from the American Institute of Baking and a Masters in Medical Science in Anesthesiology from the Emory School of Medicine.

Senator Hufstetler is married to the former Joan Bojo and together they have three children: Caleb, an MBA graduate and Investment Advisor, Schell, a doctoral student at Georgia State University in Developmental Psychology, and Rebeckah, a student at Rome High School.

The Hufstetler's are members of Seven Hills Presbyterian Church in Rome.
